steps in each case. It used to be, and I can tell you that...I can tell you this from personal experience that you'd have someone come through from New York and get picked up for DUI, and go in the next morning and plead at nine o'clock, pay a fine and go on down the road at ten o'clock, and that isn't going to happen anymore. I don't know that it's happening now because of changes that have occurred. But that probably isn't going to happen because there may be...it may take a little bit more time to check the records, make sure what we have. The court is going to, I think, be in a position of making sure the prosecutor provides the proper certification or affidavit that he's done his job. Prosecutor has to go back into that court tomorrow and face that same judge, and he better not be misleading the judge. So I think we've done about what we can do to provide some encouragement for people to simply do their jobs the way they should be doing them anyway in this area. And so I...I...I'm certainly listening. I think this discussion has been helpful, very helpful for the record. I'm not so sure, Senator Chambers, that I want to prescribe a form in this...in the mode that we're in, or I don't know that that's our...our job. I think if the courts feel that there's a form that's helpful, I think it would be fine for them to prescribe a form, if they choose so. But I don't...I don't really...we've given some idea of what we think needs to be done here, but I don't really want to get into putting forms in our language and I don't think you do either. I don't think that was a suggestion you had. But, hopefully, we've given enough direction that they can figure out how...what to present to the court and the court can, in every case, make sure that that is presented to them before they pronounce sentence. And I'll yield the rest of my time to Senator Chambers, if he needs it, because he may have used up his, I don't know.

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: Senator Chambers, about two minutes, and then you have one more time, and you're the next speaker.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Then I'll take...I will...okay, I will start on this, and then if I need more, thank you, Mr. President. Thank you, Senator Bromm, and thank you, Senator Kristensen. I believe that, if it's necessary to find out what this language was intended to mean, this discussion will make it clear. And, as Senator Kristensen pointed out with this heavily litigated
